THE NATIONAL SHRINE OF THE IMMACULATE CONCEPTION

Washington, D.C.

As one stands in the vestibule and looks toward the north apse wall, four hundred feet away, he sees a huge mosaic in gleaming gold and red. This shows in mighty proportions Christ the Lord of the Universe. It seems wherever one stands to view this masterpiece, the eyes look directly into the eyes of the viewer. Guided tours explain this and many other points of interest in the Shrine which is open every day of the week from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.
